Adventures
in ALASKA

Hulking Halibut:

Alaska halibut have been described as being "big as a barn door." The biggest halibut, weighing over 500 pounds, was caught by a 79-year-old woman.

Swimmin' Salmon:

In a single year, Alaska salmon can migrate up to 10,000 miles — about as many miles as the average person drives.

Polar Bears:

The largest polar bears in the world can be found in the Chukchi Sea between Alaska and Siberia. Adult males can weigh more than 1,500 pounds.

Mammoth Mountain:

Towering 20,320 feet, Alaska's Mt. McKinley is the tallest mountain in North America.

Monster Cabbage:

In the summertime, the sun shines almost 24 hours a day in some parts of Alaska. All that sun helps produce giant-sized vegetables. One cabbage weighed in at over 98 pounds!

Colossal Crab:

Why do they call it king crab?
Because it's king size!
The largest ever found measured six feet from claw to claw.

What's the BIG DEAL About Alaska?

It's the biggest state in the Union, with the largest coastline, biggest halibut and tallest mountain. For more far-out facts about the Last Frontier, read on.

Salmon Daze

To lay their eggs, Alaska salmon swim from the ocean to the river where they were born. Can you help this salmon find her way?

A Fish Story

One _____ day, _____ and I decided to go fishing for _____. We took along some _____ sandwiches, _____ juice and plenty of _____ to use for bait. We got into the boat and cast our fishing lines into the _____ water. Suddenly, I felt a tug on my line. But instead of a fish, I'd caught a _____! It was bright _____ and at least _____ pounds. I had a feeling it would taste _____, but I thought I'd bring it home anyway, because I knew _____ would eat it.
